PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

By John "Kris Krunch" Kral
MACA President

Hello Fellow Joeys,

Well, this is the second issue of "The Big Top" electronic issue. I do hope that you who are receiving it and find it more convenient receiving it electronically.

I have no words of wisdom to put forth in this letter so I will ramble.

A few people on the board have been trying very hard to pull the 2016 MACA convention together. It will, at this point in time, be a little smaller than those in the past years but still a lot of fun.

As all organization members get older, there aren't many younger people interested in things other than computer games, social media and just hanging out looking at the computer screen, it has been difficult to reach the younger generation. Even the circus' have changed and have gotten smaller because of a lack of interest.

These are my feelings so if you want to comment, please send them to "The Big Top" editor so he can put your thoughts in "The Big Top".

Sandi and Annette have tried to put together a good lecture and vendor line up for this year's convention. From what they told me it will be another great convention. Convention dates are November 9th to the 13th, 2016. Please refer to the registration form in "The Big Top" for more information.

Please feel free to get in touch with your state director if you have any questions or suggestions for the good of our organization.

As I keep saying "this is your organization" and your help and involvement are important to keep MACA alive and growing.

I will keep reminding you all that all of the boards of director positions are open for election this year. If you would like to be put on the ballot for election, please let the trustees of MACA know or get in touch with your State Director.

It seems we are always looking for nominees at the last minute at the convention.

I will keep reminding you in the future months letter from the President.

Another thing would be your help by sending some articles to the editor for publishing in "The Big Top". An article, about you or your clown alley would be interesting reading.

It may help one of your fellow joeys "Promote the art of clowning" in a world which needs to laugh.

I hope you all have a good spring, when it gets here.

Take care and "Keep em laff'n".

See you down the road.

CHAPLAIN'S MESSAGE

By Bill "SHOBO" Schober
MACA Chaplain

Did ya Notice?

Did ya ever notice that today's society seems to be into themselves? Do people seem to be addicted to their cell phone or I-pad? Do people know how to make small talk with people they don't know?

Our Church runs a "Turkey Bucks" program at the local Acme Markets. Customers have the option to donating money for families who are in need. As a congregation we only need to stand at the booth and ask people walking by to donate. I thought I would bring my balloons and make different figures to attract the consumer's attention. Maybe it was the time of day or my figures were really weird looking, but I got little to no reactions to the balloons. Most looked the other way or were on their cell phones talking. I was floored by the reaction. No, I wasn't "in clown" but I tried to make eye contact with each person who came in and had a ton of balloons on the table.

I saw a recent news cast story of how people don't know how to make "small talk", even though social media is so popular. Most people think they are very social and know how to interact with others but most of the time, it's behind a screen. Just do a quick Google search on making small talk and find a ton of books written on this subject. As a clown, we have an advantage on making small talk. We can break that barrier most people have to talking to strangers just by being a clown. We just walk up and interact. Of course, we shouldn't just walk up but should survey the situation prior to interact, but we do have an advantage while wearing a red nose.

Shady (aka Ron Mount) and I clowned at a Holiday Party at a local Hospital but later came back in the same room, not "in clown", to eat some dinner. It was odd to see the same people who we interacted with, not give us the time of day when not "in clown". And it was even odder not wanting to go up to those same people. This further evidence why you can't be "on" as a clown, all the time, otherwise you will be thought of a weirdo. There is a balanced line of interaction. I get reminded of this fact by my wife all the time...Just Saying!!

The Balanced line is important for our society. We need to be more interactive with each other and be more compassionate with others needs. With today's bells and whistles of communications, it appears we are more into ourselves than ever before. I believe, the more you clown, the more you feel more comfortable walking that balanced line. I know I've seen a difference in my personal life. "In Clown" you tend to notice things differently. Just the other day, while crossing a busy New York city street I noticed a blind man walking across. He had another much younger man by his side helping him navigate the area. Once they got to the other side, the young man left to go back to the side we came from, and got back with his group of guys he was standing with. Who would have "thunk it", this young guy was one of those guys who has his pants hanging from his butt area. My point is, this young man, who I assumed was more of a thug, noticed the blind man crossing and helped.

When your on you phone checking your Facebook status, your email or the score for the game last night, your not paying attention to the person in front of you. That's the main reason for the law not allowing texting and driving in the US ..Your not paying attention to what your suppose to. We would never talk on our phone during a performance in clown, nor do we want our audience. We need that personal interaction.

I can remember knowing all my neighbors when I grew up. Today? I'm lucky to know a few. I can remember sitting at a dinner having a conversation... Today? You can see four people at a table at a restaurant, each with their phones out and communicating that way with the world. Maybe we live in a fast pace world and don't have time to talk. Maybe we think we are communicating with the world and don't really get to see what's really going on.

The beauty of being a clown is you get to communicate on a whole different level. We communicate with our eyes, or body movement and what actually comes out of your mouth. The power of a clown breaks through barriers, no matter what age. So why can't we do that "out of Clown"? Communicate to someone, "I see you", with a nod of a head, holding a door going into a store, or a friendly hello. Wouldn't the world be a nicer place if more of us acted like clowns and "Noticed" each other??

Bump a nose,
Shobo

Clownatarian

The MACA is the only clown organization that gives a Clownatarian award every year and that's because, we made it up! Way back, when the MACA was being formed 30+ years ago, The Keystone Klowns, made up of several clowns that many of you don't know and most of whom are no longer with us on earth, decided they wanted to give an award to a clown for just being a great person. There was a gentleman who worked with new clowns and who on several occasions paid for registration fees, hotel rooms, etc. for clowns who were just starting out and did not have money to come to a convention. It was decided this fellow was a Humanitarian and hence the name Clownatarian.

This award was never intended as a Clown of the Year type award but as a thank you to a good human being who was always there to lend a helping hand in any way they could to other clowns. For the first, at least 15 years (I am guessing on that number) the trophy award was purchased and given to a person chosen by the Keystone Klowns, but eventually as many of them passed away or left the clown world for various reasons, the MACA decided to take over the presentation of the award.

Over the past several years, the selection committee has consisted of Nellie "Muffin" May (a founding member of the Keystone Klowns and the MACA), Darlene "Daisy" Morgan and George "Porgie" Caban. To be selected as a Clownatarian, a clown is nominated by a member of MACA by submitting a letter to the selection committee stating why this person should be considered for this award. These letters are reviewed without names of the person being nominated or the person nominating them being noted so that the nomination is based on good deeds only.

Nominations have declined significantly in the past several years but the MACA board and officers hope to rearrange this selection committee within the next year to make it easier for you all to make nominations. In the meantime, please send any nominations you have for the 2016 award to me at dottheclown@comcast.net or to my home 169 Buckingham Dr., Southampton, NJ 08088 and I will see to it that the current selection committee receives your nominations.

Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions and I will try to answer.

Sandi "Dot" Smith

Do you want to know a secret?

Did you ever want to join a group of like minded people? It's no secret that you can look at the MACA website <http://midatlanticclownassociation.com/> and find an Alley close to you. No, not that pathway behind a bunch of houses, but a group of clowns! When circuses were under tents, the clowns had to get dressed in an area they called "Clown Alley". Today, there is usually a room or area in the performance arena where the clowns get into grease and wardrobe. It is where the First of Mays learn from the other clowns.

Well, today an Alley is a local group of artists and performers who meet to exchange ideas, hone their skills and share their talents.

One simply email to the contact person can open a whole new world of clowning!

If you are not already part of an established alley, considering going to the website and see if there are a bunch of clowns in your neighborhood! If your alley is listed on the website, please check to see if the information is still correct. Send any changes to the webmaster: Terry Slaymaker buttonstclown@yahoo.com

At Kapo's ...We also have fun....we are coming into our busy time of year with many request from different charities.

February was the IHOC Walk (Interfaith Homeless Outreach Council)

March brings the Kate's Krusaders Bowl a thon for childhood Cancer

April is the Dolan Fund Family boat ride for the children of the Philadelphia Area with Special Needs on the Sprit of Philadelphia.

May is the Philly Cancer walk on Mothers Day and the Ronald McDonald house Plane Pull Fundraiser event at Philly Airport

June is an Alex's lemonade stand for our little buddy Mario...

I'm getting tired writing this down...

We really enjoyed out time at the MACA convention this past Nov, especially during the gong show and really enjoyed some of the pictures that were taken
